

Educational Update from

Welcome Back!

Every year teachers and staff members anticipate that long summer vacation from the daily routines of the classroom. And every year, the summer flies by so quickly it's hard to believe those weeks even existed. Back to school time is here again and HTC is proud to have you back. As in years past, we have so many resources and opportunities for you to incorporate in your classrooms, and we hope you will take advantage of these programs when you have time.

For more information, you can reach me by calling 369-8498 or emailing at nicole.hyman@htcinc.net. Visit www.htcschool.com for the latest information about HTC's programs for area schools. If you haven't already done so, please sign up for the quarterly HTC @school Email Updates to receive the latest information about educational offerings provided by HTC. I look forward to working and hearing from you during the 2009-2010 school year!

Sincerely,

htcschool.com Special Feature: Internet Safety Videos

HTC is proud to showcase internet safety tips on htcschool.com for teachers and students to view online. Videos such as "Internet Safety 101" and "Dangers of Cyberbullying" are available for teachers, students and even parents to watch so you can become more educated about the dangers of online predators and cyberbullying. In 2007, 43% of teens were victims of cyberbullying and 92% of those who were victims knew their victimizers. Please take advantage of this online tool to implement safety practices in your classrooms and the homes of your students. Just visit htcschool.com, click on the link for students and the Internet Safety tab. Encourage students and their families to develop an internet safety plan for their homes. In addition to the online videos, HTC also presents an Internet Safety Tips for Kids presentation in the classroom. Internet Safety guides are provided to students with a short 15 minute presentation to review the safety tips with scenarios and examples. Teachers can contact Nicole Hyman, HTC Senior Marketing Coordinator at 369-8498 to schedule a presentation.
